

ARGENTINA – MEASURES AFFECTING THE IMPORTATION OF GOODS

Request for the Establishment of a Panel by Japan

The following communication, dated 6 December 2012, from the delegation of Japan to the Chairperson of the Dispute Settlement Body, is circulated pursuant to Article 6.2 of the DSU.

On 21 August 2012, Japan requested consultations with the Government of Argentina ("Argentina") pursuant to, inter alia, Articles 1 and 4 of the Understanding on Rules and Procedures Governing the Settlement of Disputes ("DSU"), Article XXII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994 ("GATT 1994") and Article 6 of the Agreement on Import Licensing Procedures ("ILP Agreement") concerning certain measures imposed by Argentina on the importation of goods into Argentina.<sup>1</sup> Japan held consultations with Argentina on 20 and 21 September 2012. Those consultations unfortunately did not resolve the dispute.

As a result, Japan respectfully requests that a Panel be established to examine this matter pursuant to Article 6 of the DSU, Article XXIII:2 of the GATT 1994 and Article 6 of the ILP Agreement.

I. DECLARACION JURADA ANTICIPADA DE IMPORTACION REQUIREMENT

As of 1 February 2012,<sup>2</sup> Argentina has required importers to submit a Declaración Jurada Anticipada de Importación for all imports of goods into Argentina (the "DJA I Requirement").<sup>3</sup> Relevant legal instruments comprising this measure are listed in Annex I to this request.

This measure requires an importer, prior to the importation of goods, to submit an affidavit with certain information, which is processed by the Administración Federal de Ingresos Públicos ("AFIP") and then transmitted to participating governmental entities. These bodies may suspend approval of an importer's submission by placing an "observation" (observaciones) that serves as a hold on the submission in the DJAI electronic system. Until that hold is lifted, the DJAI will not be "validated" (estado salida) and the products cannot be imported. However, the conditions for approval of DJAIs are not stated in Argentine legal instruments, nor are they published or otherwise made available to other Members or traders. In addition, Argentina enforces the restrictive trade related requirements described below at Section III by, inter alia, withholding the issuance of DJAI approvals.

<sup>2</sup> The DJAI system was established on 5 January 2012 and the requirement was made effective as of 1 February 2012.

<sup>3</sup> There are certain narrow exceptions to the DJAI Requirement, including inter alia for samples, donations, and diplomatic and courier shipments.

Japan considers that, by adopting and maintaining the DJAI Requirement, Argentina has acted inconsistently with the following WTO provisions:

- Article X: 1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the DJAI Requirement promptly in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article X: 3(a) of the GATT 1994, because the DJAI Requirement is not administered in a uniform, reasonable and impartial manner.
- Article XI: 1 of the GATT 1994, because the DJAI Requirement prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.
- Article 1.3 of the ILP Agreement, because the rules for its application are not neutral in application or administered in a fair and equitable manner.
- Article 1.4(a) of the ILP Agreement because Argentina has not published the rules and all information concerning procedures for the submission of applications, in the sources notified to the Committee on Import Licensing, in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article 1.6 of the ILP Agreement, because application and renewal procedures for DJAIs are not as simple as possible and applicants can be required to approach more than three administrative bodies.
- Article 3.2 of the ILP Agreement, because the DJAI Requirement constitutes a non-automatic import licensing procedure and has trade-restrictive or -distortive effects on imports additional to those caused by the imposition of any restriction that this measure is purported to implement; because the DJAI Requirement is broader in scope and duration than any measure it is used to implement; and because it is more administratively burdensome than absolutely necessary to administer any such measure.
- Article 3.3 of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not published sufficient information for other Members and traders to know the basis for granting and/or allocating licenses.
- Article 3.5(f) of the ILP Agreement, because the period for processing applications exceeds the maximum permitted by that provision.
- Articles 5.1, 5.2, 5.3, and 5.4 of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not notified the Committee on Import Licensing of the DJAI Requirement, or changes thereto, or the publication(s) in which the information required in paragraph 4 of Article 1 of the ILP Agreement will be published.

II. CERTIFICADO DE IMPORTACION REQUIREMENT

Argentina subjects the importation of certain goods into Argentina to a non-automatic import license requirement by requiring Certificados de Importación as a condition for the importation of goods (the "CI Requirement"). The CI Requirement currently covers nearly 600 tariff lines over 17 product groups. The legal instruments covering those product groups are set out in Annex II. However, the conditions for granting CIs are not stated in Argentine legal instruments, nor are they published or otherwise made available to other Members or traders. In addition, Argentina enforces the restrictive trade related requirements described below at Section III by, inter alia, withholding the issuance of CIs.

Japan considers that, when viewed as a single regime, or alternatively as 17 individual import licensing procedures, the CI Requirement is inconsistent with the following WTO provisions:

- Article X:1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the CI Requirement promptly in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article X: 3(a) of the GATT 1994, because the CI Requirement is not administered in a uniform, reasonable and impartial manner.
- Article XI: 1 of the GATT 1994, because the CI Requirement prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.
- Article 1.3 of the ILP Agreement, because the rules for its application are not neutral in application or administered in a fair and equitable manner.
- Article 1.4(a) of the ILP Agreement because Argentina has not published the rules and all information concerning procedures for the submission of applications, in the sources notified to the Committee on Import Licensing, in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article 3.2 of the ILP Agreement, because the CI Requirement constitutes a non-automatic import licensing procedure and has trade-restrictive or -distortive effects on imports additional to those caused by the imposition of any restriction that the CI Requirement purports to implement; because it is broader in scope and duration than any measure it is used to implement; and because it is more administratively burdensome than absolutely necessary to administer any such measure.
- Article 3.3 of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not published sufficient information for other Members and traders to know the basis for granting and/or allocating licenses.
- Article 3.5(f) of the ILP Agreement, because the period for processing applications exceeds the maximum permitted by that provision.
- Articles 5.2(g) of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not included the information regarding the measure being implemented through the licensing procedures in its notifications.

III. RESTRICTIVE TRADE RELATED REQUIREMENTS

Separately and/or in combination with the above measures described in Sections I and II, Argentina requires economic operators to undertake certain actions with a view to pursuing Argentina's stated policy objectives of elimination of trade balance deficits and import substitution. Those actions include to: (1) export a certain value of goods from Argentina related to the value of imports; (2) limit the volume of imports and/or reduce their price; (3) refrain from repatriating funds from Argentina to another country; (4) make or increase investments in Argentina (including in production facilities); and/or (5) incorporate local content into domestically produced goods.

These requirements are not stipulated in any published law or regulation. To satisfy these requirements, economic operators normally either submit a statement or conclude an agreement with Argentina setting out the actions they will take. Argentina enforces these commitments by withholding permission to import, inter alia, by withholding the issuance of DJAI or CI approvals.

Japan considers that whether analyzed separately or together with the measures described in Sections I and II, these requirements, and any application thereof, are inconsistent with the following provisions:

- Article III:4 of GATT 1994, to the extent that Argentina requires domestic producers to increase local content and/or limit imports to an amount related to the volume or value of local products that they export.
- Article X:1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the measure promptly in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article XI: 1 of the GATT 1994, because the measure prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.
